

Guardian, Inc. Adopts National Guardianship Standards

BATTLE CREEK, MI - The Guardian, Inc. Board of Directors recently adopted national guardianship standards to use when making personal and financial decisions for those they serve. These national standards are provided through the National Guardianship Association (NGA) and represent best practices in the field. The standards will be operationalized to conform to Michigan probate law.

“The recent action of our Board of Directors to adopt the NGA Standards of Practice allows our staff to further their professional skills while working from a nationally recognized base of ethical principles,” states Pat Fosdick, Clinical Director.

Guardian, Inc. has been providing guardianship services since 1966. In addition to guardianship and conservatorship services, the agency provides representative payee, money management, sheltered banking, trusts, power of attorney and related services. The agency is a member of both the National Guardianship Association and the Michigan Guardianship Association (MGA).
